OPENING A CHILL-OUT ROOM FOR YOUNG PEOPLE WITH CANCER

Over the past four years, Furzedown's fundraising group FACE have helped St George's plan a much needed area for YOUNG PEOPLE WITH CANCER by raising over £15,000 - the room has been chosen, Macmillan Nurses is funding a specialist nurse-advocate and with the help of Teenage Cancer Trust, the plans have been drawn up... BUT THERE IS STILL A £1,500 SHORT-FALL IN FUNDS!

Left: the plans for St George's Teenage and Young person's chill-out room and the room at the moment

HERE'S WHY YOUNG PEOPLE WITH CANCER NEED YOUR HELP

Treatment for cancer can be a long traumatic process with lengthy in-patient stays and frequent outpatient visits. This room will be an oasis away from the busy general wards and a base for a specialist nurse to provide support and therapeutic activities.

"Having their own dedicated chill-out area can only have a positive affect on teenagers and young people's recovery during their treatment stays and visits to St George's Hospital"

St George's consultant Mr Nicholas Hyde
